CONGRESS JOLTED BY PROPOSAL OF PREST ROOSEVELT

Proposes Bill Giving Him The Power To Sell Any Property Usable for Defense

CHARGES NUMEROUS

Foes of Administration Claim It Means Economic Dictatorship

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 3—President Roosevelt's proposed bill giving him power to take over and sell any property usable for national defense—even indirectly—today jolted Congress to its depths.

Foes of the administration's foreign policy charged that it means economic dictatorship. This was heatedly denied by New Deal leaders who said the measure means that nothing can stand in the way of the all-out defense program.

Sen. Wheeler, D. Montana, said "I can see no reason to give the President the right to take over either real or personal property of the citizens."

"The terms are much too broad," said Sen. Taft, R. Ohio. "If Congress grants any such power it should be for a limited period. It is a dictatorial act."

35 Motorists Summoned For Motor Law Violations

Thirty-five summons have been issued for motorists accused of motor vehicle law violations following a war against speeding, passing stop signs and making unnecessary noises with auto horns.

The police have been exceedingly active during the past few nights as well as during the day time and have waged a vigorous campaign to halt violations of motor laws within the borough.

Two of those served with summons appeared at police headquarters last night and each paid fines of $12.25.

Those fined were: Joseph Tillo, Elm street, Tillo was charged with exceeding the speed limit.

Harrison Goodwin, Hamilton avenue, Trenton, N. J., was charged with making an unnecessary noise with his automobile horn which is also a violation of the motor vehicle laws.

"Poultry Item" is Merged With Chicago Publication

SELLERSVILLE, June 3—Announcement is made by the publishers of the "Poultry Item" that publication of that nationally-known magazine has ceased, the "Poultry Item" being merged with the American Poultry Journal of Chicago, Ill.

The change was decided upon following retirement in April of Elmer E. Althouse as president and manager, after 45 years in the newspaper and magazine field, when the company was faced with the need of reorganization. The transaction means that the Item's 125,000 subscribers will be added to the American Poultry Journal's 500,000 subscribers, the total numbering the circulation of any other poultry journal in the field, it is said.

The printing department, and the publication of the Sellersville Herald, where the Item has been published, will not be affected, it is stated. S. L. Althouse will become associate editor and Eastern representative on the staff of the American Poultry Journal.

FINDING OF STAHLEY CAR YIELDS NO CLUES

Drowned Man's Auto Found in Northeast Philadelphia; Sought Three Days

NO NEARER A SOLUTION

LANGHORNE, June 3—No clues were yielded when the automobile of the late Frederick Stahley was found by Philadelphia police officers in a remote section of Northeast Philadelphia yesterday.

Mystery still surrounds the death of Stahley, whose body was found in the Delaware River, at Pennsauken, N. J., Friday.

The officials in charge of the case are no nearer solution, they state, with the finding of the missing car, than they were when the body of the Langhorne resident was first discovered near the Pennsauken Mohican Club, with $127 in cash, a gold watch, an expensive ring, and two sets of automobile keys intact.

Stahley was elevated on April 26th to the position of foreman in the General Motors parts manufacturing plant at Trenton, N. J. Late in May, he and his wife moved into a large, more expensive home near here. On Tuesday, May 27th, at five a. m., Mr. Stahley left in his automobile, en route to his employment, and was never seen alive again by his relatives. Mrs. Stahley stated she did not report her husband missing, because "if he returned I would have felt foolish." That he was missing was not brought to public light until the finding of the body Friday last, three days after his disappearance.

The search for the car started, and yesterday two patrolmen making a tour of Linden avenue, between the Philadelphia County Fish Hatchery and Torresdale Filtration Plant, discovered it.

Assembly Deadlocked On Tax Reduction

Harrisburg, June 3—The politically divided general assembly remained deadlocked today over the question of reducing taxes and appropriating funds for the new biennium, but pressed a drive nevertheless for final adjournment next week.

Meanwhile, the entire State Government continued business on credit, unable to utilize millions of dollars on hand because all appropriations lapsed with the opening of the new biennium Sunday. Relief checks continued to go out thanks to a one-month appropriation of $6,253,000 rushed through last week.

In order to prevent any serious curtailment of governmental functions, such as might be entailed from failure to pay the salaries of some 20,000 state employees on June 13, the Senate yesterday unanimously approved and sent to the House for expected concurrence later this week of a temporary $2,000,000 appropriation.

Reporter-Soldier Dies

Philadelphia, June 3—Corp. William J. Tucker, 30-year-old reporter for the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, died last night of a staphylococcal blood stream infection at the base hospital at Indiantown Gap.

A member of Company M, 111th Infantry, Tucker was in training with the 28th division when he became ill last month. He was given several blood transfusions by soldiers who had recovered from the disease. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Tucker, of suburban Moylan, were at the bedside.

Seek Missing Soldier

Indiantown Gap, June 3—State motor police today extended their search for Thomas F. Downing, Company D, 103d Engineers, missing from Indiantown Gap since May 21.

The soldier's clothes were found along the Susquehanna River Saturday but apparently little credence is given to the drowning theory as police teletype messages have been dispatched to all local authorities to help locate Downing.

Meanwhile, the 28th Division started the final week of their basic 13 weeks training program after concluding the longest vacation since training began at the Gap in February.

AWARD CONTRACT FOR NEW HOPE PHONE OFFICE

Structure To Be of Colonial Brick With Slate Roof and Wood Trim

TO HAVE DIAL SYSTEM

A contract for the erection of a dial central office at New Hope has been awarded by the Bell Telephone Company. It will be built on a plot of ground on the north side of the first alley north of Bridge street, 182 feet west of Main street.

Charles F. Beatty, manager for the telephone company, said the one-story building will be of Colonial brick construction, with a slate roof and wood trim. Its outside dimensions will be 22 feet by 25 feet. Construction is scheduled to begin soon and the approximate completion date is August 1, 1941.

When the building is ready, dial mechanisms and associated equipment will be installed as a preliminary to transferring telephone service in the New Hope central office area to dial operation. New Hope subscribers are now served from the Lambertville, N. J., exchange. When the new dial office is in service, calls to and from Lambertville and New Hope will continue to be made without a toll charge.

In improving telephone service for the New Hope area, the Bell Company virtually has completed erection of a pole line which will carry additional aerial cable from New Hope to Buckingham. The company will erect about seven miles of storm-resisting cable from a point about 400 feet beyond Buckingham to the projected central office at New Hope. A few hundred feet of the cable near the New Hope end will be placed underground.

Mr. Beatty estimated that the New Hope building and its dial equipment, together with the outside cable work and associated facilities will cost more than $60,000. Announcement will be made later of the date when dial service begins for the New Hope exchange area.

SELLERSVILLE FACES SHORTAGE OF WATER

Big Gauge Plant Aiding Nat'l Defense Uses 235,000 Gallons Daily

RESERVE SUPPLY DROPS

SELLERSVILLE, June 3—This borough goes on water rations today so as to aid national defense. In order to insure an adequate water supply for the big plant of the U. S. Gauge Co., a key unit in the manufacture of airplane, submarine and ship gauges, the use of water is to be restricted.

The emergency was declared after officials of the borough revealed that as a result of a prolonged dry spell, the plant's water supply basin had gone down 21 inches in the last month.

The gauge manufacturing plant makes 12,000 gauges daily and employs 1400 people from all parts of Bucks and Montgomery counties. The plant uses 235,000 gallons of water daily.

The water restriction order, addressed to all residents, follows a recent increase in water rates, in a previous attempt to conserve water.

Members of the borough council revealed that WPA officials were also trying to gather available man-power to build a new pipe-line from the supply basin, a mile from the plant.

A Senator Seeks Facts

Washington, June 2. ONE of the hardest things to obtain in Washington is accurate information concerning our defense effort. The assertions of one agency are contradicted by another; the figures given out by the press agents one week directly conflict with those given out the next week. No one is able to check one against the other. The whole business is cockeyed, confused, and is getting more so all the time.

THERE is no clearinghouse, no central authority; no place where full information is available. It is the sort of situation which inevitably breeds friction and creates feuds and factions. An example last week was the public charge of

SELECTIVE SALES TAX

A general sales tax will be considered by the House Ways and Means Committee in its quest for additional sources of revenue to realize the $3,600,000,000 in additional revenue demanded by the Treasury.

The virtue of a sales tax, whatever its weakness in taxation theory, is that it brings in the money. Mayor LaGuardia of New York bitterly opposed a sales tax when he was a member of the House of Representatives, as imposing the same burden on the poor as on the rich, yet he forced a retail sales tax on New York City to pay for the city's relief outlay when no other source of revenue seemed adequate.

Every state imposes a retail sales tax on gasoline, even though the rate is the same for the bank president as for the farmer hauling crops to market. In the fiscal year 1940, 20 per cent of all state revenues came from this source. One-half of the states impose general sales taxes as well. And with specific sales taxes on liquors, cigarettes, etc., the states in 1939 raised 39½ per cent of all their revenues from some form of sales tax.

Because of these state retail sales taxes, any sales tax imposed by the Federal government in the present emergency would probably be levied on wholesale transactions, so as to avoid collecting two separate levies from the retail purchaser. The wholesale tax is supposed to have the additional virtue of avoiding part-penny collections on articles selling for only a few cents. Also it should be absorbed, at least in part, by the manufacturer or retailer instead of being all passed on to the consumer.

For some years Canada has had a sales tax of 8 per cent. This has been left unchanged, but the Canadian war budget imposes new sales taxes on specific commodities, including one on new automobiles designed to make the purchase of high priced cars practically impossible. England has a tax of 33½ per cent on the wholesale sale of goods classed as luxuries and 16 per cent on necessities.

Canada and England would seem to be the best arguments against a Federal sales tax in the United States. Although it would probably be small at the start, if it followed the history of sales taxes in Canada and England—or the history of all taxation in the United States—it would soon reach startling levels.

Those who think the taxing power should be used as an implement to direct people's purchases, or to curtail them, instead of merely to raise revenue, favor the sales tax. If a general sales tax were to become part of the national tax program, they hold, it would discourage the buying of goods not essential to the defense program.

How time flies! More than a year has elapsed since anyone repeated that classical remark that the war in Europe was phony.

News that Japanese scientists have perfected an edible paper is interpreted by one observer as a naive Oriental way of disclosing that Japan is about to eat its words.

When Uncle Sam reaches the point of turning out those 500 bombers a month, Hitler may revise his estimate that the Nazi regime will last a thousand years.

and bored. Oh well, if he wanted to be that way!

Fritz, the steward, expressionless in gleaming white drill, turned up with a tray of fresh drinks. Ray smiled him with pleasure. "Fritz is sensitive to thought waves," he said, and reached for a glass, his thin face merry. Marie said, "No, thanks." Nino shook his head, and Eve sank deeper in her chair. "Gin—even gin—makes me fat," she confessed, discontentedly.

Ray nodded toward the end wall of Northern's suite. It formed a section between the open lounge, where they sat, and a corridor leading into a library saloon. "The mighty Mongolian casts shadows on our mirth," he observed, wryly. "What does he do with himself all day?" He addressed a pointed curiosity toward the Marchese, as one who would know. Nino muttered something under his breath. It wasn't the first time Sheldon had asked questions.

"Do stop calling Northern a Mongolian!" Marie felt suddenly annoyed with them all. "I'm going out in the speed boat. Want to come?" She gave Nino that chance, but he wasn't swift enough. "Don't bother," she called over her shoulder. "I'll have more fun alone."

Nino took her at her word and stayed behind. He would be in better form tonight, he told himself.

Marie drove the boat through the clear waters with a sense of having been let down. It wasn't fun to be alone. There was too much of a sameness about the light, cutting along the slope of olive orchards and vineyards, and painting the whites of a town shelved on a plateau. Everything was too picturesque. She closed her eyes on that hated word—picturesque.

She darted and circled in and out of coves, not caring where or how she went. She was quite near the shore to one side of the overhanging esplanade, when she saw the rowboats. They were in a lazy huddle, and she was almost upon them before they could scatter. Marie twisted aside so violently that the veer of her wheel keeled her boat over. She rose to the surface and clung to the slippery side of her overturned craft, lifting her voice to reassure the gabbling boatmen. They were clucking and waving as they began to scramble for their oars.

Suddenly from behind in the water, a hand reached out and under her chin. Startled, she fought. A voice, unmistakably American, said, "Easy now."

"Leave me alone," Marie protested. "I can—"

"Don't tell me you can swim. I know it," said this person. "But I've always wanted to rescue a lovely girl in distress. Are you going to let yourself be rescued, or must I duck you?" He had pulled her away from the boat. He handled her as if she were one of those celluloid toys that children play with in bathtubs. The boatmen watched with expert interest.

Marie's anger gathered momentum as the stranger started off with her toward the shore.

Tony Worth arrived in Corfu on Sunday, June 18, on the air line from Naples. He had not drawn an easy breath since the Savoia docked the day before. When he saw the Schuyler yacht anchored in the lovely Grecian Bay, he let out a sigh long enough to travel back to New York and the anxious people there.

But how was he to get on the Serenia without arousing the suspicions of the people he had come to watch? In the swing of adventure, he anticipated obstacles. Now they seemed to bristle between him and any swift action, for his experience with the Baroness Lascar had given him a jolt, and Felix Norheim seemed a menacing reality already,

FASHION PARADE

By Orry-Kelly

(Famous Hollywood Stylist Writing For International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD—(INS)—The various new schemes in make-up make it possible for girls with red hair to wear almost any color they please this year, even red.

After experimenting with Perc Westmore, the make-up director at Warner Bros., we have evolved certain color rules for lambent-tressed Ann Sheridan, Geraldine Fitzgerald and Joan Leslie. I'm certain you other red heads will also appreciate the information.

Mr. Westmore calls Geraldine the "mahogany type" because she has more brown than red in her hair. She has a faint spray of blue white freckles over her nose and a white skin minus all the yellow tones that would eliminate wearing the yellow shades or a Chinese red which has yellow in it.

Perc gives Geraldine an ethereal cameo make-up with neutral foundation and powder, garnet rouge and lipstick.

brown mascara and pencil, and I allow her to wear a very rich dark green, chartreuse and olive, a reddish brown to match her hair, navy, black and gray, a hot blossom pink, ruby red and Chinese red. One of her newest color pets is a rich butterscotch shade. In "Shining Victory" she wears a faille coat-dress of this color that is handsomely combined with toffee brown. Geraldine also looks wonderful in the grape shades.

Ann Sheridan is something else again with her dark auburn hair plentifully touched with gold and her creamy complexion, with slight tinge of yellow undertone. Quoting Mr. Westmore we find that "Ann is meant for color and lots of it, not a vulgar display of cosmetics but a small amount of brilliant-toned make-up, high peppery shades dextrously applied. Her glamour is increased by the clear definition of her lovely features." He suggests bright rouge and lipstick, copper foundation and powder, brown eyeshadow, black mascara and pencil.

Now what about wardrobe colors. Ann may wear only the coppery and golden yellows. And she should wear flaming blues and greens but never a flaming red. A dull, dark red is best. In all other colors she must stay on the subdued side. Her face and hair must never play a supporting role to a bright color. Blues and greens bring out the richness of her hair and skin without becoming too important.

seems to be in some sort of trouble but he won't reveal it. After some investigation the professor learns that a woman called Ketti, played by Mona Maris, owns an art gallery and employs Michael to make copies of masterpieces which she sells as originals. When he wants to quit she threatens to expose him. The professor tells her very coldly that unless she frees Michael he will kill her and she ridicules the thought of this weak-looking creature threatening her life.

Reputation Builders

By Frances Lee Barton

TO those who wish a reputation as a cook and hostess, I submit the following recipe. It may call for a little time and effort, but it pays enormous dividends to its followers.

Individual Lemon Rolls
¾ cup sifted cake flour; ¾ teaspoon double acting baking powder; ¼ cup sifted sugar; 1 egg; 1 cup sifted sugar; 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Sift flour once and measure. Combine baking powder, salt, and eggs in bowl. Place over smaller bowl of hot water and beat with rotary egg beater, adding sugar gradually until mixture becomes thick and light-colored. Remove bowl from hot water. Fold in flour and vanilla. Turn into two 15 x 10-inch pans which have been greased, lined with paper to within ½ inch of edge, and again greased. Bake in hot oven (400° F.) 10 minutes. Quickly cut off crisp edges of cake. Turn out on cloth covered with powdered sugar; remove paper. Cut each cake into six pieces of equal size, spread thinly with lemon filling and roll. Wrap in cloth and cool on rack. Before serving, decorate rolls with rosettes and borders of sweetened whipped cream, using pastry tube. Makes 12 rolls.

For tea roll slices, cut individual lemon rolls in ½ inch slices. Makes 9 dozen slices.

Lemon Filling

1 cup sugar; 5 tablespoons cake flour; dash of salt; 2 egg yolks, slightly beaten; ¾ cup water; ¼ cup lemon juice; 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind; 2 teaspoons butter. Combine sugar, flour, and salt in top of double boiler; add egg yolks, water, and lemon juice, mixing thoroughly. Place over boiling water and cook 10 minutes, stirring constantly. Add lemon rind and butter. Cool. Makes about 1½ cups filling, or enough for two or three 9-inch layers, or two 8 x 8-inch layers (generously).

DAVIS STOPS BRISTOL BATS IN FIRST GAME OF SCHOOL SERIES

Limits Locals To Seven Scattered Blows as Southampton Wins

FINAL SCORE IS 7 TO 3

Winners Score Total of Four Runs in Fourth Canto

By Jack Gill

From out of the hinterlands of Upper Southampton Township came nine men and a ball team. Making their first visit of the season to the big town, Southampton High School leveled Bristol by a 7 to 3 count in the opening game of the Lower Bucks schoolboys championship series. By virtue of this triumph the invaders make a Bristol victory a necessity Wednesday afternoon on the Southampton diamond as the second fust of the three game fight continues.

Duane, which is no name for an athlete, has been cut to "Droopy" at Southampton ever since the boy was in the lower grades. The same "Droopy" Davis, who shot his school into a championship play-off basketball game at Bensalem last winter on a long bucket from out of nowhere, pitched his mates to a decision over Bristol last night at Landreth Field. After a rather rocky start, Davis settled down and broke the backs of the Bunnies with a sharp breaking hook that sailed past local swingers like Rose in the auto race.

Davis was the whole show in limiting the Cards to seven blows and in striking out eleven bat bearers who poked at one of the best breaks they have seen all year. The Southampton boy uses a sidearm delivery that is hard to solve and employs a variation of the wind-up that George Caster once used so effectively for the A's. As the game progressed Davis got better.

The contest had fans punchy at the finish. It was nothing like last week's fust with Bensalem. Bristol committed five errors and Dutch Vandegrift, the hill starter, lost control and blew up in the fourth inning. Wendell Tazik, a hero last week, slipped to a chump last night with three errors. In short, it was just one of those games that are better out of the system than in.

L. Davis scored Southampton's first run in the initial canto when he came home on White's safe rap. But Bristol went ahead 2 to 1 in their half. Accardi was hit with a pitched ball, and after Barouth fouled to the catcher, Boccardo hit safely to left. Both boys later scored on Herby Yates' clean wallop down the left field foul line. A hit by Medland tied it up for the winners in the second, but Bristol stayed in the ball game by tallying on hits by Barouth, Boccardo and Vandegrift. Then the Greyhounds made it read 3-3 in the third on three walks, an error and a bingle by Davis.

The fourth inning saw Bristol go hog wild. Vandegrift couldn't find the plate and the infield threw the ball around like a Mexican jumping bean on a mid-summer evening. The scorebook was a maze of misery as it spelled out four errors, a balk, a wild pitch, one walk and two hits. Southampton, naturally, went on to win the ball game.

Jimmy Hopkins, who relieved Vandegrift in the fifth inning, struck out four men and sailed through without allowing a safety. The losers out-hit the winning combine by 7 to 5, but they're still paying off on runs.

ST. ANN'S TO OPEN BOXING ON JUNE 9TH

Announcement has been made by Match-maker Johnny Raccagno that the St. Ann's Athletic Association has received a sanction to conduct an amateur boxing show for next Monday night, June 9. The sanction was received yesterday and work has already begun on the card.

It is most likely that the two teams of this section will be represented on the card, the Seibold A. C. and the Diamond Sporting Goods. The Seibold team is coached by Joe Meyers, himself a former amateur fighter. Diamond is being handled by the Castor brothers, Carl and Chet.

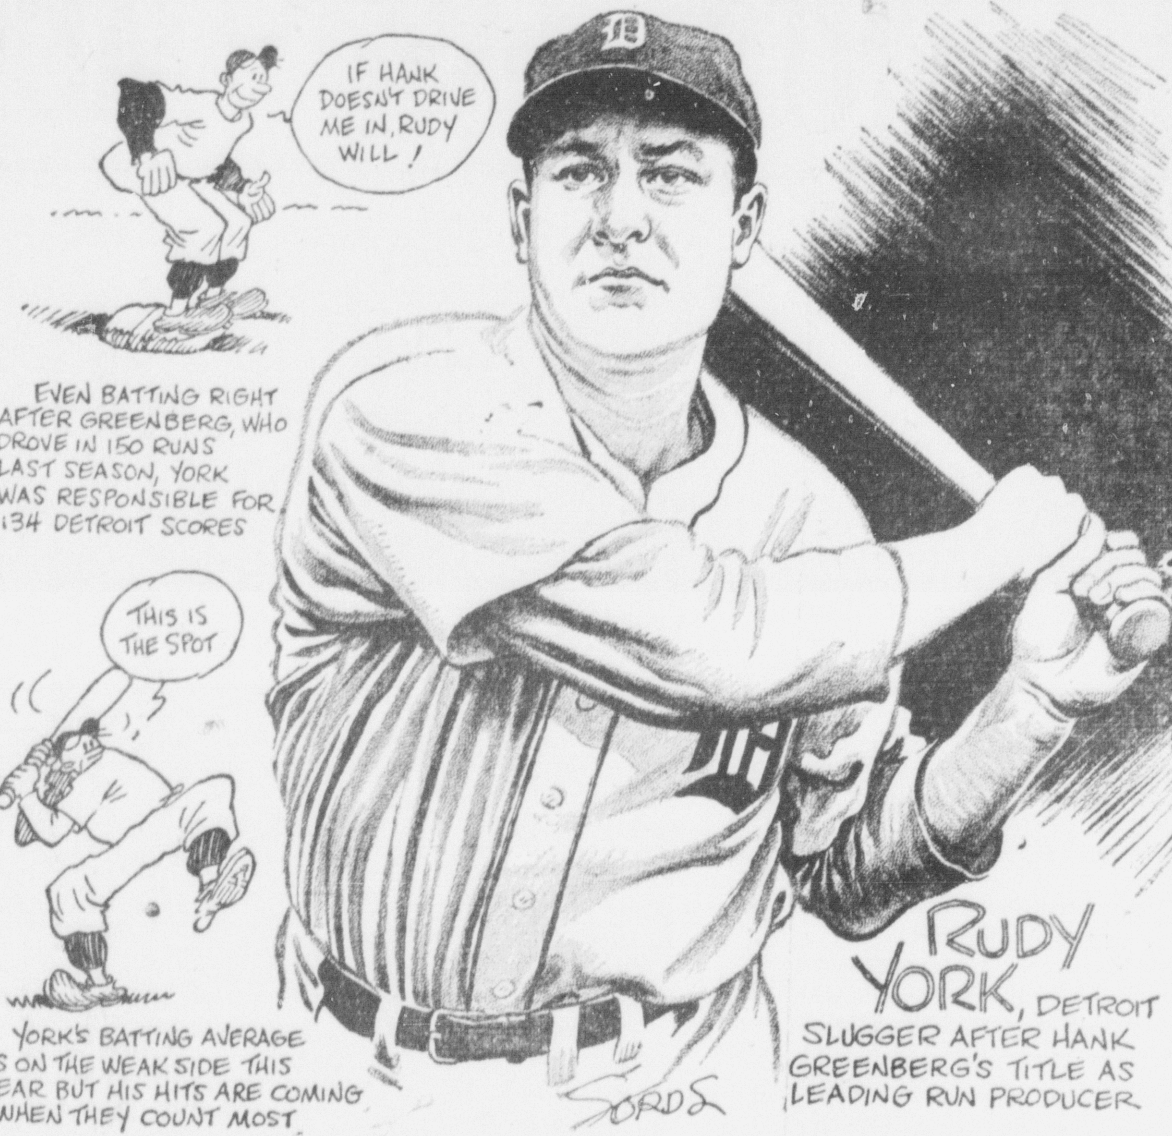

To date, the Castor brothers have six boys in constant training and appear to be very strong. Several of these fought last season for the first time and with little experience they received plus the knowledge drilled into them by the Castor boys should go places against the visiting foes.

Members of the Diamond team and their weights include: Al Conrad, 130; Carl Petrino, 112; Al Turner, of Pottsville, 118; Walter Keyes, 130; Dick Mayer, Newtown, 160; and Dave Montgomery, 160.

The Seibold A. C. team already has three members in Carman Orino, 160; William McCleary, 146; and Jesse Rogers, 160. Coach Meyers expects several other boys to join in with these and begin their training in time for future bouts.

Matchmaker Raccagno expects to have opponents picked for these boys during the latter part of the week.

EDGELY MOVES INTO DEADLOCK FOR LEAD

EDGELY, June 3—By beating the skidding St. Ann's team and "Mike" DeRisi, the Edgely A. C. moved into a deadlock with the Saints for first place in the Bristol Suburban League. Final score of the tilt played on the Edgely diamond was 6-5.

A safe hit to left field by Stan Felker gave the Edgelyites the triumph in the last half of the seventh with two put away. Dewnap had opened the inning with a pass and went to second on a passed ball. Johnny Dick struck out and Leigh's best was a fly to DeRisi. Felker then delivered his winning hit, a drive to left on which Dewnap crossed.

ROHM & HAAS NINE VICTORS OVER "ODDIES"

A five-run rally against Milt Jones in the sixth inning gave the Rohm and Haas team a 6-5 victory over the Oddies.

Fellows last evening on the Maple Beach diamond.

Until the "blitz" took place, Jones was sailing along beautifully. He had allowed a run and a hit in the first and from then on was untouchable, the chemical workers failing to even get a scratch safety.

But trouble began to brew in the sixth when Stan Dick opened with a line single to left. Wally Oppman found a Jones' pitch to his liking and wallowed it into deep left, along the foul line, for a home run. Massilla kept it up with a single to center but was forced at second by Gallagher.

Predictions Out On Supreme Court Appointment

Washington, June 3—President Roosevelt today faced the pleasant duty of filling the seventh vacancy on the Supreme Court under the New Deal as Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes announced his retirement, effective July 1.

Many new dealers immediately forecast the appointment of attorney general Robert H. Jackson of New York, as chief justice. A few predicted that a Coolidge Republican appointee to the tribunal, associate justice Harlan F. Stone, also of New York, would be named to head the Court with Jackson getting an associate justiceship.

Little doubt exists in Washington that solicitor general Francis Biddle of Philadelphia will be promoted to attorney general.

British Bomb Berlin, Other Points in Ruhr

London, June 3—Causing large fires, a small force of British bombers attacked Berlin last night and early today while squadrons of other RAF planes hammered industrial targets in Germany's strategic Ruhr district.

Germans Deny Landings In Syria

Berlin, June 3—Wilhelmstrasse authorities denied all knowledge today of any German landings or military concentrations in French-mandated Syria.

Authoritative quarters declared the German Government would reserve all agitation regarding the situation in Syria for London.

But they pointed out the French Government recently promised to protect its territory against any attacks. "If the British march into Syria," German quarters said, "it would in the first place be a Franco-British matter."

Germans Claim 746,000 Tons British Shipping in May

Berlin, June 3—The German high command announced today that British merchant ship losses during May totalled 746,000 tons.

Of this total, the high command announced, 479,000 tons were sunk by submarines, 215,000 tons by planes and the remainder by surface craft.

German planes yesterday sank five British merchant ships out of convoys along the British east coast and damaged five other freighters.

Other German planes carried out successful daylight raids on harbor facilities, warehouses and railroad yards in the Midlands and also pounded harbor works on the Tyne and Humber estuaries at night.

Defenders Like These Papers, Army Men Say

Nothing makes a selective service man in camp happier than a letter from home or a home-town newspaper in the daily mail, army officials said recently after an extensive survey.

Next in order, the selective service youth likes sweets such as candy, cookies and chocolates—and chewing gum!

Officers say that on the march the gum helps keep the boys from drinking too much water and from dipping into their lunch ration.

Other offerings which bring a smile of pleasure to the enrollee include a general repertoire of utilities among which are books of stamps, flashlights, a towel now and then, toilet articles, and reading materials.

Officers say that if relatives want to be sure their addressee gets what's mailed to him, they should address the letter or package in this way: Name first, his company or battery second, his regiment third, and, lastly the name of the post office.
